1. The first trial "Journey Time Indication System" (JTIS), which employs the techniques of Global Positioning System and video imaging processing, has been set up on Hong Kong Island to enable motorists to make informed choices among the three cross-harbour tunnels before crossing the harbour. The Transport Department is considering the feasibility of setting up a similar system in Kowloon.
2. The Electrical and Mechanical Services Department is organising a technical seminar on Friday, 26 August 2005 on the subject. The seminar aims to explore and discuss new technologies and the latest developments of JTIS, including vehicle speed detection techniques, associated communication systems, journey time computation/prediction algorithm, methods of disseminating JTIS information to motorists and the public, and related innovations. The venue is Lecture Theatre, 7/F, Electrical and Mechanical Services Department Headquarters, 3 Kai Shing Street, Kowloon, Hong Kong.
3. Interested companies are welcome to apply to present in this seminar on a first-come-first-served basis. Each presentation shall last no more than 20 minutes, and preferably in the format of a powerpoint presentation. Presenters shall be responsible for their own presentations, including all costs of the presentation, and shall not be entitled to claim for any costs or reimbursements. The organiser reserves full rights to accept or reject any application(s), change the schedule, venue and any related arrangements, and to cancel the seminar, at its total discretion.
4. Applications should be made by submitting the attached registration form no later than close of play on Tuesday, 16 August 2005. Those who do not receive our reply within one week of the closing date may assume their application not successful. Successful applicants will be informed separately.
