You should never bring in or import non-approved domestic gas appliances for use in Hong Kong. This is because the Approval Scheme for Domestic Gas Appliances only covers domestic gas appliances being sold in Hong Kong. Therefore, use unsafe domestic gas appliances would be dangerous to yourself and others. Any person who fails to comply with mandatory requirements relating to the manufacture, importation, supply and use of domestic gas appliances in Hong Kong will be liable to a maximum fine at level 6 ($100,000) and one-year imprisonment. You should only buy domestic gas appliances bearing a "GU" mark in Hong Kong to ensure the safety and quality standards.
Have you done?

Yes, I have arranged Registered Gas Installers employed by Registered Gas Contractors to conduct safety check and maintenance service for my domestic gas appliances at least once in 18 months to ensure their good working order. Regarding the regular safety inspection for domestic gas appliances, Gas Supply Companies will be happy to provide assistance in this aspect.

If I have questions on domestic gas appliances, what can I do?

You can go to EMSD website: http://www.emsd.gov.hk for the list of approved models of domestic gas appliances or call the Hong Kong Government Integrated Call Centre Hotline: 1823 for more information.

Which kinds of domestic gas appliances being covered by the “GU” Mark?

“GU” Mark covers all new gas appliances primarily designed, or intended to be used inside domestic premises, for example, water heaters and clothes portable cassette cookers and small disposable gas cylinders included.