

Animation - To be suitable or not, it is no doubt that compatibility comes first! (web accessible version)

Description of visual: The screen shows three hands with chopsticks reaching out to the dim sum steamer basket in the center and picking up the dim sums from inside. The word “夾” (literally means “suitable” or “to clip”) appears on the dim sum steamer basket.

Narrator: When it comes to suitability, it is always about whether something matches something else.

Description of visual: There are several red words next to the dim sum steamer basket. The headline “To be suitable or not, it is no doubt that compatibility comes first!” comes out after placing the words together. A boy with freckles and orange hair pulls out quickly from right to left a background setting featuring the earth and the starry sky.

Narrator: Well, in this world, there are things that match with each other, but there are also some that just don't. You can't force it.

Description of visual: The boy stands in the middle of the screen with hands over his chest. Three big words “是咁的” (literally mean “the point is that”) appear in front of him, and soon he is surrounded by different kinds of foods. With his left hand akimbo and right hand holding chopsticks, the boy is considering which food to choose.

Narrator: For example, sushi is of course a good match for sashimi but not for green beans or curry, right?

Description of visual: The boy rests his chin in his hands, casting greedy eyes at the three pieces of raw fish sushi. The screen changes. The boy is stunned while staring at the sushi with green beans and curry flavors.

Narrator: Likewise, freshly grilled roast pork goes perfectly well with bean curd sheets and tofu.

Description of visual: The boy dresses himself up as a piece of roast pork, being clipped by chopsticks and grilled on raging fire. The screen changes. Two girls, one is a bean curd skin and the other one a bean curd, appear from both sides of the roast-pork boy.

Narrator: Speaking of hairstyle, it definitely has to suit one's face shape. Following the crowd is not a good idea!

Description of visual: The boy pulls off the costume of roast pork and becomes a boy with bob hair style, then turns into a superstar wearing sunglasses and the hair style as Elvis Presley, and finally a blonde princess in the Princess hair style.

Narrator: Need to match!

Description of visual: The screen shows a flash of photo-taking. Then the boy appears with the look as a shower superman wearing an orange cloak. Next to him is the caption "a shower head with water control valve".

Narrator: In the same way, shower heads and electric water heaters must match too.

Description of visual: The shower superman fades out slowly from the screen. Then appears a beautiful woman dressing up as an electric water heater. Next to her is the caption "a shower storage type electric water heater".

Narrator: Shower heads with on/off control valves do not suit shower storage type electric water heaters.

Description of visual: The shower superman and the electric water heater beauty look at each other, showing great affections.

Narrator: Even if a shower head with an on/off control valve can be installed on a shower storage type electric water heater, it doesn't mean they are suitable for use.

Description of visual: The shower superman presses his water control valve, and its display changes from ON to OFF.

Narrator: If you switch off the valve and turn on the water heater to boil water, the pressure inside the heater will build up. Failure to release the pressure may result in explosion.

Description of visual: The shot moves along the red hose below the shower head, until it shows the electric water heater beauty. The pressure inside the electric water heater beauty is becoming bigger and bigger. Her whole body turns red and finally explodes. The heater superman next to her is totally shocked.

Narrator: So, please bear in mind that shower heads with on/off control valves don't go well with shower storage type electric water heaters!

Description of visual: With tears, the shower superman "unfriended" the electric water heater beauty on the social media.

Narrator: But they are a good match for other type of electric water heaters!

Description of visual: The shower superman discovers some other types of electric water heater beauties, and he likes them very much.

Narrator: Make sure you get it right before you buy! End!

Description of visual: The screen shows the caption "a shower head with water control valve is not suitable for a shower storage type electric water heater!!". At this moment, the shower superman changes back to the boy with orange hair, and utters a word "the end". The information of the Electrical and Mechanical Services Department is shown at the lower right corner of the screen:
